Important Information

This Information Memorandum (IM) provides information about the MLC Alternative Beta Strategy Trust (MABS Trust). Investments in the MABS Trust will be by invitation only, and no public offer of units will be made.

To invest in the MABS Trust you must have received the IM (electronically or otherwise) within Australia or New Zealand and meet the eligibility requirements set out in this IM under the heading 'Opening an account'.

This IM may not be photocopied, reproduced or distributed to others without the prior written consent from us or the Investment Manager.

This IM is not a prospectus or product disclosure document under the Corporations Act 2001 (Cth) ('Corporations Act') and is not required to be and has not been lodged with the Australian Securities and Investments Commission (ASIC) under the Corporations Act.

This IM contains important information you should consider before making an investment decision in relation to the MABS Trust. The information provided in this IM is general information only and does not take into account your personal financial situation, needs or objectives. The content in this IM may change from time to time without notice. Any changes will be published at mlcam.com.au/mlcaltstrategies. We recommend you obtain financial advice for your own personal circumstances before making an investment decision.

MLC Investments Limited (MLC), the Trustee of the MABS Trust, is a fully owned subsidiary within the National Australia Bank Limited Group of companies (NAB Group). Neither the Trustee nor any company in the NAB Group guarantees the capital value, payment of income or performance of the MABS Trust. An investment in the MABS Trust does not represent a deposit with or liability of the NAB Group and is subject to investment risk, including possible delays in repayment and loss of income and principal invested.

'Trustee', 'MLC', 'we', 'our' or 'us' should be read as references to MLC Investments Limited in its capacity as trustee. This IM supersedes all previous offers and representations (including presentations, brochures and information memoranda) in relation to the MABS Trust. The Trustee reserves the right to modify, withdraw, reject or cancel any offering made pursuant to this IM at any time prior to accepting any subscription.

Any information or representations not contained in this IM may not be relied upon as having been authorised by the Trustee or the Investment Manager and should be disregarded.

The constitution of the MABS Trust (which is available on request from the Trustee or the Investment Manager) should be considered in conjunction with this IM. To the extent of any inconsistency between this IM and the constitution, the constitution will prevail.

Bloomberg Finance L.P. and its affiliates (collectively, 'Bloomberg') do not approve or endorse any information included in this material and disclaim all liability for any loss or damage of any kind arising out of the use of all or any part of this material.

New Zealand investors only

Warning

New Zealand law normally requires people who offer financial products to give information to investors before they invest. This requires those offering financial products to have disclosed information that is important for investors to make an informed decision. The usual rules do not apply to this offer because there is an exclusion for offers where the amount invested upfront by the investor (plus any other investments the investor has already made in the financial products) is NZ$750,000 or more. As a result of this exclusion, you may not receive a complete and balanced set of information. You will also have fewer other legal protections for this investment. Investments of this kind are not suitable for retail investors.

Ask questions, read all information given carefully, and seek independent financial advice before committing yourself.

2. MLC Alternative Beta Strategy Trust

The MABS Trust is designed to generate returns via investing in alternative strategies that complement a portfolio of traditional assets.

Investment objectives

The MABS Trust aims to:

- over rolling 3 year periods, earn a return (after fees and expenses) which exceeds the Bloomberg AusBond Bank Bill Index plus 3% pa; and
- over rolling 3 year periods, have a maximum beta to equities of 0.3 (relative to 50% S&P/ASX 200 Index and 50% MSCI All Country World Index A$ Hedged).

There is no guarantee that the target return will be achieved.

Investment strategy

The MABS Trust is designed to provide a complementary return stream to a portfolio of traditional assets. By combining investments, it seeks to deliver a pattern of returns that is largely uncorrelated with equity markets.

The MABS Trust will provide exposure to a range of investments, primarily alternative beta strategies (Underlying Investments).

To provide diversification and reduce volatility in the MABS Trust, the Investment Manager carefully selects and combines Underlying Investments.

The Underlying Investments may:

- include a wide range of investment strategies;
- invest across few or many different investment markets (eg cash, shares, bonds, commodities, and currencies);
- include both 'long' and 'short' exposures to individual securities and asset class indices; and
- make use of derivatives.

The Investment Manager also uses the following investment techniques to manage the MABS Trust:

- Derivatives – The MABS Trust may use derivatives to hedge certain investment risks and to improve the likelihood of meeting its investment objectives. Where used, derivatives strategies will be implemented by a specialist derivatives manager. However, the Investment Manager will be responsible for the derivatives strategies.
- Cash – The MABS Trust will have an allocation to cash to assist in managing liquidity, for cash flow purposes or to help manage risk.
- Currency management – The MABS Trust will substantially hedge foreign currency exposures of Underlying Investments to the Australian dollar where such Underlying Investments are not denominated in Australian dollars. The MABS Trust will still have indirect currency exposure as the Underlying Investments may employ currency management strategies for their own assets.

Underlying Investments

For details of the current Underlying Investments of the MABS Trust please contact mlchedgefunds@mlc.com.au. However, we may not be able to provide information that is market sensitive or subject to confidentiality obligations.

The Underlying Investments may change as a result of ongoing review and as new investment opportunities arise. This may occur without prior notice to you.

About the MABS Trust

The Trustee is a fully owned subsidiary within the National Australia Bank Limited Group of companies ('NAB Group'). References in this document to 'Trustee', 'MLC', 'we', 'our' or 'us' should be read as references to MLC Investments Limited in its capacity as trustee.

The MABS Trust generally accesses the Underlying Investments through pooled vehicles managed by their investment managers (eg trusts and companies that may or may not be listed, and partnerships) or managed accounts.

Unit classes

The MABS Trust may offer multiple unit classes to investors. Prior to any investment, please contact us to confirm which unit class or classes are available for your investment (and what the rights and entitlements are in respect of the relevant class).

3. Investment manager – MLC Asset Management Services Limited

The Investment Manager is a fully owned subsidiary of the NAB Group and has been providing multi-manager investment solutions for over 35 years.

The Alternative Strategies Team of the Investment Manager is responsible for the MABS Trust.

Investment approach

The universe of alternative strategy managers is diverse. The risk profile of each strategy can be very different and some are substantially more risky than others.

For the MABS Trust, the Investment Manager looks for alternative managers and strategies that have complementary risk and return profiles.

Key aspects of the Investment Manager's investment approach include:

- Thorough strategy and manager research and due diligence, focused on:
 - compiling a high quality universe of prospective managers
 - conducting deep qualitative, quantitative and operational due diligence on high interest managers as well as regularly reviewing incumbent managers
 - conducting research on alternative beta strategies, including examining academic research and conducting primary empirical research
 - assessing the costs/benefits of implementing strategies via particular managers, and
 - being evidence based, objective and sceptical, and alert to possible behavioural biases.

- Disciplined portfolio construction, using sophisticated proprietary modelling based on our '4 C's' principles:

Conviction – in the manager or strategy;

Correlation – seek strategies that have low correlation with both equity markets and incumbent managers;

Contribution – seek a contribution to risk congruent with our conviction, the correlation benefits and the diversification benefits; and

Constraints – eg capacity and liquidity.

These principles are applied with the aim of determining the optimal combination of managers and strategies that will meet the investment objectives of the MABS Trust. The Investment Manager regularly monitors these allocations using its disciplined review process to ensure the highest likelihood of achieving the investment objectives.

- Multi-level investment review including:
 - within the Alternative Strategies Team
 - with the Investment Manager's other investment experts
 - with the Alternatives Investment Committee (or similar governance committee) that oversees the MABS Trust, and
 - by any other forum the Investment Manager or the Trustee considers appropriate.

The role of the Investment Manager

In managing the MABS Trust, the Investment Manager is responsible for:

- constructing and managing the portfolio to meet the investment objectives of the MABS Trust
- researching, selecting and combining the Underlying Investments
- monitoring risk for both the Underlying Investments and the MABS Trust
- performance monitoring and reporting
- cash flow management
- derivatives management, and
- currency hedging and monitoring.

While the Investment Manager is responsible for all of these functions, it may outsource some of these functions to other parts of the NAB Group or to external parties.

The Trustee may change the Investment Manager of the MABS Trust at its discretion or if the Trustee is required to do so by law.

4. Some things to consider before you invest

Before you invest, we want to draw some things to your attention.

When investing in alternative or 'non-traditional' strategies, you are investing in assets that typically do not behave like traditional assets.

However, like all investments, the MABS Trust comes with some risks. The main ones are described below.

Counterparty risk

All investments, borrowings and transactions (including buying and selling securities) involve a counterparty on the other side of the transaction (eg when buying a security, the counterparty is the seller). There is a risk that a counterparty may not be able to meet its obligations.

Underlying Investments and the MABS Trust may have exposure to many different counterparties. If a counterparty does not meet its obligations then the MABS Trust may suffer a loss.

Currency risk

The MABS Trust may invest in Underlying Investments located in other countries and denominated in different currencies. The value of a fund will change if there is a movement in the exchange rate between the Australian dollar and the currency of the overseas country.

The MABS Trust will substantially hedge foreign currency exposures of Underlying Investments to the Australian dollar where such Underlying Investments are not denominated in Australian dollars. The MABS Trust will still have indirect currency exposure as the Underlying Investments may employ particular currency management strategies for their own assets.

Derivatives risk

Derivatives are contracts that have a value derived from another source, such as an asset, market index or interest rate. There are many types of derivatives including swaps, options and futures. They are a common tool used to manage risk or improve returns.

For example, derivatives can be used to protect a portfolio from downside equity risk. Derivatives can also be used to earn large returns from small movements in the underlying asset's price. However, they can lose large amounts if the price movement in the underlying asset is unfavourable. Risks particular to derivatives include the risk that the value of a derivative may not move in line with the underlying asset, the risk that counterparties to the derivative may not be able to meet payment obligations and the risk that a particular derivative may be difficult or costly to trade.

Derivatives may be used by the Investment Manager in the MABS Trust. Our Derivatives Policy, which outlines how we manage directly held derivatives, is available on request.

The Underlying Investments may also use derivatives. Such derivatives use is not covered by our Derivatives Policy.

Gearing risk

Gearing an investment through borrowing or leverage by using derivatives can magnify returns. However it can also magnify losses. In extreme market conditions, asset values can fall dramatically in a short period of time and the value of an investment may even fall to zero.

The Underlying Investments may use derivatives or borrow to achieve gearing, which may at times be substantial. In addition, where deemed appropriate by the Investment Manager, the MABS Trust may use derivatives or borrow to achieve gearing.

Investment manager risk

The Investment Manager has a rigorous investment approach and careful review process as outlined on page 6. However, the Investment Manager could overestimate or underestimate risk or make incorrect decisions about the investment strategy of the MABS Trust. This could affect the MABS Trust's ability to achieve its investment objectives.

Liquidity risk

The Underlying Investments may have exposure to illiquid assets such as those in private, unlisted or small specialised markets, mortgages, or alternative investments, which are often difficult to buy or sell quickly. Therefore, in some environments they may not be able to be sold without incurring large transactional costs or quickly enough to prevent or minimise a loss. A lack of liquidity may also affect the amount of time it takes us to satisfy redemption requests.

Market risk

Markets are uncertain and investors may experience periods in which expectations are not met, resulting in negative returns. Changes in market sentiment and the local or global economy are examples of market risks that can impact returns from the assets the MABS Trust invests in.

4. Some things to consider before you invest

Regulatory risk

Laws of Australia and overseas jurisdictions can impact returns on your investments. Laws affecting your investment may change in future.

Short selling risk

Short selling is a technique an underlying fund manager may use when it has a view that an asset's price will fall. The manager borrows the asset from a lender and sells it with the intention of buying it back at a lower price. If all goes to plan, a profit is made. The key risk of short selling is that, if the price of the asset increases, the loss could be significant.

Underlying Investments may engage in short selling. Often, short positions are offset by long positions in other assets. For example, this allows a fund to hedge their exposure to market risks with the aim of capturing the performance differential between individual securities.

Underlying investment risk

Many of the Underlying Investments will be pooled vehicles operated and managed by the underlying fund manager. While the Investment Manager seeks information on each Underlying Investments' assets, strategy and operations, the Investment Manager may not have a complete view of or control over the workings of the fund.

Most Underlying Investments are divided into partnership interests, units, shares or similar securities ('Shares'). The MABS Trust's unit price takes into account the number of Shares it holds in each Underlying Investment and its declared Share price. If an error occurs in an Underlying Investment's Share price, this will have an impact on the MABS Trust's unit price and we may not be able to seek compensation from the operators of the Underlying Investments.

Some Underlying Investments may be volatile. They can also use leverage, short selling and other investment techniques which can increase the risk of loss (although if used effectively these tools can also improve risk-return efficiency). An individual Underlying Investment may also be affected by changes such as the deterioration in the underlying fund manager's skill at selecting securities or changes to investment personnel. The Investment Manager manages this risk using its investment approach outlined on page 6 which includes researching the Underlying Investments and diversifying across multiple Underlying Investments with different skills and styles.

Transaction restrictions

Due to the particular strategies and investments of some of the Underlying Investments, it may not always be possible for the MABS Trust to buy or sell interests in those Underlying Investments (for example, due to limited capacity or restricted transaction dates).

Therefore the Trustee may, from time to time, reject applications (in whole or in part), impose conditions or restrictions on redemptions, or invest in cash (or other assets as the Trustee determines) until capacity or other restrictions can be overcome.

Trust is not registered

As the MABS Trust is only available to wholesale clients it has not been registered with ASIC. This means investors are not covered by the same protections applying to registered schemes under the Corporations Act.

However, in the future, we may register the MABS Trust.

Investments are not guaranteed

None of the NAB Group companies guarantees the capital value, payment of income or performance of the MABS Trust. An investment in the MABS Trust does not represent a deposit with or liability of any of the NAB Group companies and is subject to investment risk, including possible delays in repayment and loss of income and principal invested.

The MABS Trust is governed by its constitution. In the event that this IM is inconsistent with the constitution, the constitution shall prevail.

5. Some important details

Useful information on how the MABS Trust works.

Opening an account

To invest in the MABS Trust:

- you must be a resident in Australia or New Zealand,
- be a wholesale client within the meaning of the Corporations Act, and
- if you receive the offer in New Zealand, you are required to pay a minimum subscription price of NZ$750,000 or otherwise be a wholesale investor within the meaning of the Financial Markets Conduct Act 2013 (NZ).

You should contact us to discuss the application requirements before making your first investment. We will advise what you need to do. Among other things, you will need to complete an Application/Instruction Form or sign a fee letter and we may need to request formal identification from you before you invest. Until all requirements are satisfied we cannot accept an application.

If at any time after investing in the MABS Trust you no longer satisfy the eligibility criteria, you must advise us and we may redeem your unitholding.

This IM only constitutes an offer if you receive it in Australia or New Zealand.

This IM does not constitute an offer or invitation in any jurisdiction in which it would be unlawful to make such an offer or invitation. By accepting this IM, you are representing that you are an eligible investor as described in this section of the IM, and you agree that, except as otherwise provided in this IM, neither you nor any of your directors, officers, employees or advisers will use the information for any purpose other than for evaluating an investment in the MABS Trust, or divulge such information to any other person.

As at the date of the IM, the MABS Trust's units are offered and sold solely outside of the US and are not offered to 'US persons' (as defined under Regulation S of the US Securities Act of 1933).

Business Days are generally days on which banks are open for business in Sydney (except Saturday, Sunday and public or bank holidays or such other days as we determine from time to time). We have the discretion to declare any day to be a Business Day.

Minimum balance

You need to maintain a minimum balance of $500,000. We may, however, accept lower amounts at our discretion. We may redeem your unitholding if your account balance falls below $500,000.

Dealing days, unit prices and units

Due to the liquidity profiles of most of the Underlying Investments, the MABS Trust is not able to offer daily transactions. Instead the MABS Trust will offer transactions on Application Dealing Days and Redemption Dealing Days on which eligible investors may apply to transact with the MABS Trust. This is to ensure the unit price reflects the most up to date information from the Underlying Investments and to coordinate the timing of cash flow to or from the Underlying Investments, the MABS Trust and the investors.

The MABS Trust will strike a transactable unit price ('Dealing Unit Price') for dealing, distribution and other purposes for an Application Dealing Day and/or for a Redemption Dealing Day (which may or may not be the same date).

The Dealing Unit Price for each class of units will reflect the performance of the Underlying Investments, income earned, fees, expenses and taxes paid and payable relevant to that class.

Many of the Underlying Investments are illiquid in nature and are generally not priced on a daily basis and have lags. Therefore, there is expected to be a lag before all valuations are available and the Trustee is able to ascertain the Dealing Unit Price. In such circumstances, it may take a number of weeks for the Dealing Unit Price to be ascertained and the actual number of units issued or cancelled to be known.

The MABS Trust may use estimated valuations of the Underlying Investments to determine the Dealing Unit Price where up-to-date market valuations are not available.

The unit pricing function for the MABS Trust will be performed by the Administrator.

The overall value of your investment in the MABS Trust will change according to the relevant unit price and the number of units held.

If there is a unit pricing error that substantially impacts a Dealing Unit Price, an adjustment may be made. This will generally involve reprocessing affected transactions using the corrected Dealing Unit Price. The value of your investment could be increased or decreased as a result.

Our unit pricing philosophy is available at mlc.com.au. For more details on our policies relating to unit pricing please contact us.

5. Some important details

Adding to your account

Once you've opened your account, you can make additional investments by electronic funds transfer ("EFT").

To receive the Dealing Unit Price for a particular Application Dealing Day an application must:

- be received at least 7 Business Days prior to an Application Dealing Day, and
- be accepted by the Trustee.

Generally applications received less than 7 Business Days prior to an Application Dealing Day will not be accepted for that Application Dealing Day, but will be carried forward to the next Application Dealing Day. We have the discretion to waive or vary this cut-off time without explanation.

Application monies must also be deposited with us at least 3 Business Days prior to an Application Dealing Day. Any interest earned on application monies between the date of receipt and the Application Dealing Day will be paid into the MABS Trust and is not kept by the Trustee.

The number of units allocated to you will be determined by the Administrator once the relevant Dealing Unit Price has been struck.

We have the discretion to accept or refuse any application without explanation. For example, an event may occur that causes an Underlying Investment to terminate or suspend applications. Should this occur, then applications into the MABS Trust may also be suspended.

Application request limit

Collectively, investors may generally make applications totalling up to 25% of the MABS Trust's total net asset value on any given Application Dealing Day. If the total of applications exceeds this amount then each investor's requested application amount will be scaled down, generally by multiplying it by the ratio that 25% of the MABS Trust's total net asset value bears to the total of the application amounts requested by all investors. The Trustee may waive or vary the application limit at its absolute discretion. The Trustee may also use any other reasonable method of apportioning units to the investors. In the event of an over-subscription, the amount exceeding the application limit will be returned to you generally within 10 Business Days after the given Application Dealing Day.

Accessing your money

You can request a partial or a full redemption from your account to a nominated bank account. Redemption requests must be received by the Trustee at least 7 Business Days prior to the relevant Redemption Dealing Day. We have the discretion to waive or vary the notice period without explanation.

Once lodged, redemption requests may not be withdrawn except with our consent.

As the MABS Trust is expected to mainly invest in Underlying Investments which are of an illiquid nature and are generally not priced on a daily basis and have lags, there may be significant delays in obtaining valuations and liquidity from the underlying assets of the MABS Trust. Therefore, there is expected to be a lag before the Trustee is able to ascertain the Dealing Unit Price. For example, if a redemption request is received 7 Business Days before 30 September and is accepted by the Trustee, the Dealing Unit Price for 30 September will be used to process the redemption. Payment will be made as soon as possible after the Trustee determines the Dealing Unit Price and there are sufficient funds available, but will usually be no earlier than 20 Business Days after the relevant Redemption Dealing Day.

While it is our intention to make payment to you as soon as possible after the Redemption Dealing Day, payment may require the sale of underlying assets and will only be made to you once there is sufficient cash available.

Redemptions are not guaranteed to be paid within any set time.

The number of units redeemed (where the redemption is a dollar amount) or the dollar amount redeemed (where the redemption is in units) by you will be determined by the Administrator once the relevant Dealing Unit Price has been struck.

The Trustee:

- may suspend redemptions;
- may suspend payment of redemptions we have already accepted;
- is not obliged to cause units to be redeemed, or
- may, where redemption requests exceed $500,000, process redemptions in instalments over several Redemption Dealing Days.

5. Some important details

If the Trustee deems that satisfying a redemption request may have an adverse impact on other investors, then the redemption may be delayed, potentially for an extended period of time.

The Trustee does not expect to suspend redemptions, or to delay payment of redemptions, other than in exceptional circumstances such as where there are adverse market conditions, or where Underlying Investments suspend or limit redemptions.

Although the Trustee will generally make the payment of the redemption request in cash, the Trustee has the discretion to make the payment, in full or in part, by transferring assets of the MABS Trust to you. The Trustee may deduct the cost of transferring the assets to you from the redemption payment.

Redemption request limit

Collectively, investors may generally make redemption requests totalling up to 25% of the MABS Trust's total net asset value on any given Redemption Dealing Day. If the total of redemption requests exceeds this amount then each investor's requested redemption amount will be scaled down, generally by multiplying it by the ratio that 25% of the MABS Trust's total net asset value bears to the total of the redemption amounts requested by all investors. The Trustee may waive or vary the redemption limit at its absolute discretion. The Trustee may also use any other reasonable method of apportioning available funds among investors.

Transfers

You may be able to transfer all or some of your unitholding to another eligible investor. Please contact us for more information.

Transacting on your account

We can only process transaction requests when we receive all required information. We will not be responsible for any loss arising from unauthorised or fraudulent requests.

We may deduct amounts or redeem units in certain circumstances

We may deduct from a redemption payment any amount owed under the constitution, including taxes. We may also redeem some or all of a unitholding in the MABS Trust to satisfy any such amounts.

We may also redeem all or some of a unitholding if we form the opinion that the unitholding is prejudicial to the interests of other investors.

Income distributions

Our current practice is to generally distribute all of the taxable income of the MABS Trust to investors for each financial year (including any net capital gains and net gains on currency management). As the MABS Trust has elected into the Attribution Managed Investment Trust (AMIT) regime, we have the discretion to accumulate income (instead of distributing all of the income) and if we do so, the accumulated income will be reflected in the unit price. We intend to continue our current practice to distribute all of the taxable income (including any capital gains) for each year. We will notify you if this changes.

To receive a distribution, you must hold units in the MABS Trust on the distribution calculation date.

All income distributions will be reinvested unless agreed otherwise with you.

On the reinvestment of income, units will be issued at the Dealing Unit Price applicable to the distribution calculation date. Buy spreads do not currently apply to the issue of these units.

The amount of the MABS Trust's income distribution is expected to vary from year to year, sometimes widely. In years when significant currency movement occurs, significant currency hedging gains or losses may be reflected in distributions.

Tax

Because tax laws are complex and change from time to time, you should seek professional tax advice on your investment in the MABS Trust.

The MABS Trust itself generally should not be liable for tax on its net earnings. Rather investors should include their proportion of this taxable income of the Trust in their tax returns. Any net losses are retained by the MABS Trust and may be available for use by the MABS Trust to offset future gains.

If you buy units before the distribution calculation date, the Dealing Unit Price will include income accumulated in the MABS Trust. The income that has been accumulating will generally be distributed and you may potentially have taxation liabilities in respect of that income.

Depending on an investor's circumstances, a revenue or capital gain or loss may arise when units in the MABS Trust are sold or redeemed.

5. Some important details

Gains or losses from the disposal of investments in some Underlying Investments may be treated by the MABS Trust as revenue gains or losses for tax purposes and not as capital gains or losses. Gains or losses arising from currency management may also be treated as revenue gains or losses for tax purposes. Due to the nature of some Underlying Investments, investors may receive notional income or gains calculated under the relevant accruals taxation provisions of the Income Tax Assessment Act. This means that Australian resident taxpayers may be assessable on amounts of income or gains that may not necessarily have been received during the relevant income year.

The AMIT regime

The MABS Trust is an Attribution Managed Investment Trust (AMIT).

This means:

The MABS Trust will be deemed to be a 'fixed trust' for taxation purposes.

The allocation of taxable income to its investors is based on "attribution" on a "fair and reasonable basis", rather than a present entitlement to the "income of the MABS Trust" for each financial year and the relevant Trust is not liable to tax provided all its taxable income is attributed to investors.

A Trust may make year-on-year adjustments to reflect under-or-over distributions of the Trust's income. Investors may increase or decrease the cost base of their units where taxable income attributed is either less than or greater than (respectively) broadly the cash distribution and tax offsets for an income year, to avoid the potential for double taxation.

Under the AMIT regime:

Australian residents will include their share of a Trust's taxable income in their income tax return, and non-residents may have withholding tax deducted from distributions they receive from the relevant Trust. The MABS Trust may accumulate income which is reflected in the unit price. Taxable income is attributed to investors, even if a Trust doesn't distribute its income. However, we intend to continue our current practice of distributing all of the MABS Trust's taxable income (including any capital gains) to our investors each financial year. We will notify you if this changes.

The details of the taxable income attributed to you will be set out in an AMIT Member Annual Statement (AMMA Statement), which will contain all necessary tax information. The tax payable (if any) depends on your individual tax profile and applicable tax rate. If you disagree with our attribution of taxable income, you can object to the Commissioner of Taxation. If you decide to take this course, it is important that you obtain professional tax and legal advice. The constitution of the MABS Trust provides for you to give us notice before making an objection, so please do so and we will work with you to try to resolve the issue.

This IM is not a tax guide. We recommend that you contact your tax adviser or the Australian Tax Office at ato.gov.au for further details and expert advice in relation to your own personal circumstances.

This applies whether you are an Australian resident or a non-resident for tax purposes.

Changes to the MABS Trust

We may make changes to the MABS Trust (and the information in this IM) at our discretion including, but not limited to terminating the MABS Trust.

Some changes may be made without prior notice, including, but not limited to, changes to the Underlying Investments, currency hedging arrangements, and the manner in which Application Dealing Days and Redemption Dealing Days are determined.

Where possible we will give you prior notice of materially adverse changes. Changes that are not materially adverse will be available on mlcam.com.au/mlcaltstrategies.

We use a number of service providers and we reserve the right to change them at any time without notice to you.

Unitholders' liability

The MABS Trust's underlying assets are owned by the Trustee on behalf of investors. The MABS Trust's constitution limits unitholders' liability to their investment in the MABS Trust.

6. Explanation of fees and costs

This will give you more information on the fees and costs you will pay.

Management Costs

The management costs payable to the Trustee will be specified in the Application/Instruction Form for the relevant class of units or a fee letter.

The Management Costs will be reflected in the Dealing Unit Price for each class of units. They will be paid from the assets of the MABS Trust – and are not required to be paid by you separately.

The Management Costs do not include buy/sell spreads, transactional costs or fees and costs relating to the Underlying Investments.

Underlying Fees and Costs

In addition to the Management Costs, Underlying Fees and Costs (ie all fees and costs, including any performance fees relating to the Underlying Investments) are paid from the assets of the MABS Trust and reflected in the unit price. These Underlying Fees and Costs will vary and are not required to be paid by you separately. By investing in the MABS Trust, you will benefit from our scale and negotiating power with Underlying Investments. Where performance fees relating to the Underlying Investments, are payable, such performance fees may be uncapped and payable to some Underlying Investments even though the MABS Trust or other Underlying Investments produce a negative performance.

As at the date of this IM, none of the current Underlying Investments charge a performance fee. However in the future some Underlying Investments may charge a performance fee.

Buy/sell spreads

When you buy or sell units in the MABS Trust, the Trustee may deduct an allowance for the costs of buying and selling underlying assets. Known as buy/sell spreads these costs are included in the Dealing Unit Price and include allowance for items such as brokerage, stamp duty and spreads charged by underlying funds.

When you transact on your account a small portion of your transaction may be allocated towards meeting these costs. These costs are an additional cost to you.

There are currently no buy/sell spreads, we will notify you as soon as practical if this changes in the future.

Reimbursable expenses

We are entitled to be reimbursed from the MABS Trust for all costs and expenses incurred in acting as Trustee or in relation to the administration and management of the MABS Trust. The expenses may include, but are not limited to, audit fees, IM preparation and printing costs and registry services. We currently pay the majority of these costs and expenses out of the Management Costs and do not charge them to you as an additional cost. Consistent with industry practice, costs incurred for tax and legal due diligence are not included in the Management Costs and are an additional cost incurred. Please contact us for more details on these costs.

Fees paid to the NAB Group companies

We may use the services of NAB Group companies where it makes good business sense to do so and will benefit our customers.

Amounts paid for these services are always negotiated on an arm's length basis and are included in the fees referred to in this IM.

Changes to fees and costs

We may vary fees or introduce new fees in accordance with the constitution.

We may decide to recover expenses directly from the MABS Trust, rather than pay them out of the Management Costs.

We will give you 30 days' notice of increases in the Management Costs. No notice will be given in respect of changes to Underlying Fees and Costs.
